Mountain States Employers Council Announces Four Appointments

DENVER--Mountain States Employers Council has added four staff to its Specialized Legal Services department.

Sarah Menninger is Manager of Customized Affirmative Action Programs, Sandie Harrison and Sarah Boerger are Affirmative Action Specialists, and Ryan Adair is an Immigration Services attorney.

MSEC services include employment law, human resource and management development training, both on-site with employers, or in classes through the office itself. More than 30,000 managers, supervisors, and staff from across the Mountain West attend MSEC's development classes and seminars each year. Founded in Denver in 1939, MSEC 2,700 members are served by 60 human resource and management development professionals and 30 staff attorneys.
